The Mercator-IPC Fellowship is the cornerstone of the Istanbul Policy Center-Sabancı University-Stiftung Mercator Initiative. The initiative was launched on July 5, 2011 upon the signing of the “Memorandum of Understanding” by the presidents of Sabancı University and Stiftung Mercator. It officially initiated its activities on January 3, 2012.

ABOUT IPC

IPC is firmly committed to providing decision makers, norm leaders, academics, and the general public with innovative and objective analyses of key domestic and foreign policy issues.

ABOUT STIFTUNG MERCATOR

Stiftung Mercator is an independent private foundation. It aims to strengthen Europe, improve integration through equal educational opportunities for everyone, drive forward the energy transition as a trigger for global climate change mitigation, and firmly anchor cultural education in schools.

WHO?

WHAT?

Subtopics in this area:
• Analysis of the social and economic impacts of climate change mitigation and adaptation policies;
• Mechanisms for effective multi-level governance in climate change mitigation and adaptation;
• Obligations to policy reform (in developing countries) and overcoming the alleged dichotomy of economic development and climate change mitigation and adaptation;
• Mapping the impacts of climate change in Europe and Turkey; and Turkey’s transition to a low-carbon energy system (i.e., energy efficiency, renewable energy) and climate policies in the European context.

CLIMATE CHANGE

Few issues necessitate international cooperation as strongly as the need to respond to the threat of climate change. The reduction of greenhouse gas emissions cannot be accomplished through the joint efforts of national governments, business, academia, civil society groups, and individual citizens. In particular, the transformation of energy systems in the EU and towards decarbonization is crucial for reducing greenhouse gases for mitigation and adaption. The Mercator-IPC Fellowship Program aims to raise awareness among decision makers and the broader public of the threats posed by climate change.

EU/GERMAN-TURKISH RELATIONS

Given that Turkey, Germany, and Europe have entered an era of multiple crises, continuous and open dialogues between Turkey and the EU is a necessity for the fight against terrorism, the maintenance of peace and stability in the European periphery, managing irregular migration flows, and the development of models for integrating refugees into society. Furthermore, in the midst of economic and foreign policy-related challenges, Turkey’s role in preserving stability in the region is crucial now more than ever.

Subtopics in this area:
• Populist movements in Europe; challenges in the EU (migration management, Brexit, right-wing extremism); and implications for EU/German-Turkish relations;
• Methods of cooperation complementary to the accession process;
• Economic cooperation between the EU and Turkey;
• Turkish-German cooperation as a pillar in Turkey’s relations with the EU;
• Turkey’s role in the MENA region and its importance in the EU’s external actions and foreign policy;
• Managing and teaching diversity in pluralistic societies; and
• Education as a means to promote democratization and a culture of living together;

HOW?

The Mercator-IPC Fellowships are granted a monthly net salary of up to 2,700 EUR, a monthly family allowance of up to 500 EUR (if preconditions are met), and a travel allowance of up to 2,500 EUR in total.

Mercator-IPC Senior Fellows are granted to internationally renowned civil servants, representatives of civil society or politicians who have already made a significant contribution to the program’s thematic areas, especially to EU/German-Turkish relations.

The financial compensation of Mercator-IPC Fellowships varies according to the format and duration of their projects. At the discretion of the IPC Director, additional funding will be provided to organize events and publications.

Mercator-IPC Fellows are granted a monthly net salary of up to 2,700 EUR, a monthly family allowance of up to 500 EUR (if preconditions are met), and a travel allowance of up to 2,500 EUR in total.

Mercator-IPC Fellowships are available for outstanding young academics, journalists, and professionals who have significant prior work experience aiming to strengthen academic, political, and societal ties between Turkey and Germany, as well as between Turkey and Europe. A PhD degree is strongly preferred. Applicants without a PhD degree will only be accepted if their work experience and expertise meet the program requirements to the jury’s satisfaction. Projects that focus on the German-Turkish nexus are preferred.

Based on the experience and professional careers of the candidates, there are two types of positions available.

ABOUT STIFTUNG MERCATOR

Stiftung Mercator is an independent private foundation. It aims to strengthen Europe, improve integration through equal educational opportunities for everyone, drive forward the energy transition as a trigger for global climate change mitigation, and firmly anchor cultural education in schools.

WHO?

WHAT?

Subtopics in this area:
• Issues related to integration of refugees in the EU and Turkey;
• Turkey’s role in the MENA region and its importance in the EU’s external actions and foreign policy;
• Obstacles to policy reform (in developing countries) and overcoming the alleged dichotomy of economic development and climate change mitigation and adaptation;
• Mechanisms for effective multi-level governance in climate change mitigation and adaptation;
• Analysis of the social and economic impacts of climate change mitigation and adaptation policies;

CLIMATE CHANGE

Few issues necessitate international cooperation as strongly as the need to respond to the threat of climate change. The reduction of greenhouse gas emissions cannot be accomplished through the joint efforts of national governments, business, academia, civil society groups, and individual citizens. In particular, the transformation of energy systems in the EU and towards decarbonization is crucial for reducing greenhouse gases for mitigation and adaption. The Mercator-IPC Fellowship Program aims to raise awareness among decision makers and the broader public of the threats posed by climate change.

EU/GERMAN-TURKISH RELATIONS

Given that Turkey, Germany, and Europe have entered an era of multiple crises, continuous and open dialogues between Turkey and the EU is a necessity for the fight against terrorism, the maintenance of peace and stability in the European periphery, managing irregular migration flows, and the development of models for integrating refugees into society. Furthermore, in the midst of economic and foreign policy-related challenges, Turkey’s role in preserving stability in the region is crucial now more than ever.

Subtopics in this area:
• Populist movements in Europe; challenges in the EU (migration management, Brexit, right-wing extremism); and implications for EU/German-Turkish relations;
• Methods of cooperation complementary to the accession process;
• Economic cooperation between the EU and Turkey;
• Turkish-German cooperation as a pillar in Turkey’s relations with the EU;
• Turkey’s role in the MENA region and its importance in the EU’s external actions and foreign policy;
• Managing and teaching diversity in pluralistic societies; and
• Education as a means to promote democratization and a culture of living together;

HOW?

The Mercator-IPC Fellowships are granted a monthly net salary of up to 2,700 EUR, a monthly family allowance of up to 500 EUR (if preconditions are met), and a travel allowance of up to 2,500 EUR in total.

Mercator-IPC Senior Fellows are granted to internationally renowned civil servants, representatives of civil society or politicians who have already made a significant contribution to the program’s thematic areas, especially to EU/German-Turkish relations.

The financial compensation of Mercator-IPC Fellowships varies according to the format and duration of their projects. At the discretion of the IPC Director, additional funding will be provided to organize events and publications.

Mercator-IPC Fellows are granted a monthly net salary of up to 2,700 EUR, a monthly family allowance of up to 500 EUR (if preconditions are met), and a travel allowance of up to 2,500 EUR in total.

Mercator-IPC Fellowships are available for outstanding young academics, journalists, and professionals who have significant prior work experience aiming to strengthen academic, political, and societal ties between Turkey and Germany, as well as between Turkey and Europe. A PhD degree is strongly preferred. Applicants without a PhD degree will only be accepted if their work experience and expertise meet the program requirements to the jury’s satisfaction. Projects that focus on the German-Turkish nexus are preferred.

Based on the experience and professional careers of the candidates, there are two types of positions available.

ABOUT STIFTUNG MERCATOR

Stiftung Mercator is an independent private foundation. It aims to strengthen Europe, improve integration through equal educational opportunities for everyone, drive forward the energy transition as a trigger for global climate change mitigation, and firmly anchor cultural education in schools.

WHO?

WHAT?

Subtopics in this area:
• Issues related to integration of refugees in the EU and Turkey;
• Turkey’s role in the MENA region and its importance in the EU’s external actions and foreign policy;
• Obstacles to policy reform (in developing countries) and overcoming the alleged dichotomy of economic development and climate change mitigation and adaptation;
• Mechanisms for effective multi-level governance in climate change mitigation and adaptation;
• Analysis of the social and economic impacts of climate change mitigation and adaptation policies;

CLIMATE CHANGE

Few issues necessitate international cooperation as strongly as the need to respond to the threat of climate change. The reduction of greenhouse gas emissions cannot be accomplished through the joint efforts of national governments, business, academia, civil society groups, and individual citizens. In particular, the transformation of energy systems in the EU and towards decarbonization is crucial for reducing greenhouse gases for mitigation and adaption. The Mercator-IPC Fellowship Program aims to raise awareness among decision makers and the broader public of the threats posed by climate change.

EU/GERMAN-TURKISH RELATIONS

Given that Turkey, Germany, and Europe have entered an era of multiple crises, continuous and open dialogues between Turkey and the EU is a necessity for the fight against terrorism, the maintenance of peace and stability in the European periphery, managing irregular migration flows, and the development of models for integrating refugees into society. Furthermore, in the midst of economic and foreign policy-related challenges, Turkey’s role in preserving stability in the region is crucial now more than ever.

Subtopics in this area:
• Populist movements in Europe; challenges in the EU (migration management, Brexit, right-wing extremism); and implications for EU/German-Turkish relations;
• Methods of cooperation complementary to the accession process;
• Economic cooperation between the EU and Turkey;
• Turkish-German cooperation as a pillar in Turkey’s relations with the EU;
• Turkey’s role in the MENA region and its importance in the EU’s external actions and foreign policy;
• Managing and teaching diversity in pluralistic societies; and
• Education as a means to promote democratization and a culture of living together;

HOW?

The Mercator-IPC Fellowships are granted a monthly net salary of up to 2,700 EUR, a monthly family allowance of up to 500 EUR (if preconditions are met), and a travel allowance of up to 2,500 EUR in total.

Mercator-IPC Senior Fellows are granted to internationally renowned civil servants, representatives of civil society or politicians who have already made a significant contribution to the program’s thematic areas, especially to EU/German-Turkish relations.

The financial compensation of Mercator-IPC Fellowships varies according to the format and duration of their projects. At the discretion of the IPC Director, additional funding will be provided to organize events and publications.

Mercator-IPC Fellows are granted a monthly net salary of up to 2,700 EUR, a monthly family allowance of up to 500 EUR (if preconditions are met), and a travel allowance of up to 2,500 EUR in total.

Mercator-IPC Fellowships are available for outstanding young academics, journalists, and professionals who have significant prior work experience aiming to strengthen academic, political, and societal ties between Turkey and Germany, as well as between Turkey and Europe. A PhD degree is strongly preferred. Applicants without a PhD degree will only be accepted if their work experience and expertise meet the program requirements to the jury’s satisfaction. Projects that focus on the German-Turkish nexus are preferred.

Based on the experience and professional careers of the candidates, there are two types of positions available.

ABOUT STIFTUNG MERCATOR

Stiftung Mercator is an independent private foundation. It aims to strengthen Europe, improve integration through equal educational opportunities for everyone, drive forward the energy transition as a trigger for global climate change mitigation, and firmly anchor cultural education in schools.

WHO?

WHAT?
FURTHER INFORMATION

For further details about the Mercator-IPC Fellowship Program and updated deadlines, please visit:
http://ipc.sabanciuniv.edu/about_fellowship/?lang=en

Istanbul Policy Center
Bankalar Caddesi Minerva Han
No:2 Kat:4 34420 Karaköy / Istanbul-Turkey
T. +90 (0)212 292 49 39
F. +90 (0)212 292 4957
E. ipc@sabanciuniv.edu

WHERE?

Mercator-IPC Fellows work at IPC in Istanbul for the duration of 6 to 12 months. IPC offers Mercator-IPC Fellows access to a broad network of academics, civil society activists, and decision makers as well as a unique platform for sound academic research to shape hands-on policy work. Fellows benefit from Sabancı University’s exceptional intellectual capital and vast reserves of scientific knowledge.

WHY?

Mercator and Istanbul Policy Center (IPC) at Sabancı University invite academics, journalists, and professionals to apply for the Mercator-IPC Fellowship Program.

The program aims to strengthen academic, political, and social ties between Turkey and Germany, as well as between Turkey and Europe, based on the premise that the acquisition of knowledge and the exchange of people and ideas are preconditions for meeting the challenges of a globalized world.

The Istanbul Policy Center-Stiftung Mercator-Sabancı University Initiative has created a synergy between German, Turkish, and European research communities through the Mercator-IPC Fellowship Program in the past seven years.